

To whom it may concern:

I am writing this letter on behalf of J.R. Thicklin and his sensational program concerning domestic violence. The presentation was truly a meaningful experience for me. It changed my attitude towards everything around me and made me see everything from a different perspective. I didn't leave the presentation with just a different view on things, but on top of that I left with so much knowledge on domestic violence that I had lacked of before. I feel like what I learned really needs to be passed on to others. Domestic violence is a serious issue and that is why other students should be informed on this. If this presentation created an impact on me, imagine what it can do to others. I believe this is a worth while program in schools. Everyone has a benefit from this and can leave with something new to pass on to others.

Sincerely,
